HOLLAND BROAD LEAF RAPE

Rape seed for planting is more important than many farmers and dealers realize. There are hundreds of tons of Rape seed imported every year to be used for bird seed and unfortunately this feed stock sometimes gets into a seed store for planting purposes.

Holland farmers specialize on Rape for planting, and experiments have shown conclusively that HOLLAND GROWN BROAD LEAF RAPE gives much greater yields of green feed per acre than seed of any other origin. Test plats have shown double or treble the yield per acre when planted with HOLLAND BROAD LEAF RAPE. Experiments have further shown that it makes more feed during the hot summer months.

Of the various biennial types and varieties of Rape grown at the Oregon State Experiment Station, the HOLLAND BROAD LEAF RAPE has proven to be one of the best in that it has shown a more thrifty growth, develops very rapidly to the pasture stage and is of the true biennial character. The seed has always been of high quality and the production heavy in experiments made at the Station.

The Jenks-White Seed Company make a specialty of HOLLAND BROAD LEAF RAPE and do not sell other varieties and seed of other origin unless otherwise specified. One car only has just been brought in for spring requirements and we will not be able to add to our supply during the spring planting season. For that reason we would suggest that you book with us at once in order to insure a supply.
